Management Pleased With Co-operation Which Has Been Extended

PLANT IS EXPANDING

Most of The Products Will Be Aluminum, It Is Stated

Complimenting the men of industry in Bristol for the aid given fleetwings during the trying war years, "Al" Daniels, chief of material control of Fleetwings, told Bristol Rotarians that Fleetwings expects to be located here for a long time and he hopes that his company will continue to get the same fine cooperation from Bristol's industrialists. Daniels made these remarks when he addressed the local group at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon.

Daniels pointed out that Fleetwings is interested in gaining title to Plant No. 2. He said that the company has made dishwashers, air conditioners for General Electric, automobile, gas tanks for Army Aircraft, and 50,000 aluminum gear doors for the Berry Door Co.

"Our plant is continuously expanding, but we are experiencing no difficulty in securing equipment," Daniels said. "We hope, however, to be 100 per cent converted the first of the year."

Most of our products will be aluminum. Mr. Kaiser has taken over an aluminum plant in Spokane, Washington, and we have our own mills.

At the present time we employ about 1600, but we expect to employ between 2,000 and 2,400 when our plant is fully expanded," Daniels pointed out.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Daniels answered questions from the members present.

Inside Your Congress

"Solemn Farce"

—by—
SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

OPA is dying in the stores, but it is being extended into new "rent control areas" never previously invaded. A re-examination of its tyrannical practices is therefore in order.

You should know of an important decision by the Supreme Court of the State of Washington. A majority of that court upheld a treble-damage claim by a tenant against his landlord. However, they clearly indicated that they would have decided in favor of the landlord if they had not felt themselves bound by a decision of the United States Supreme Court (in which that court also divided 6-3).

In this case a landlord was ordered by OPA to charge no more rent after spending $1585 in equipping an apartment with furniture, electric refrigerator and stove, hot water, air conditioning, etc.

Three judges of the Washington State Supreme Court holdidly held OPA unconstitutional. I quote from the minority opinion: "The unconstitutional acts of the OPA in this case are in keeping with other acts of that arbitrary, dictatorial, and un-American bureau, which, holding forth the bugaboo of inflation, has brought financial ruin to tens of thousands of Americans. As Senator Byrd has said, 'It is a new idea, strange to the American way of life and foreign to its origins.' Its rent controls have advanced to a point of confiscation of property without trial or due process of law."

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Republican leaders of both houses of Congress met yesterday to formulate legislative policies for the next session. Nearly 100 House members received assignments for specific recommendations.

Representative Taber, prospective Appropriations Committee chairman, declared war on the public housing program and said 1,000,000 persons would be removed from Federal payrolls. Chairman Jenkins of the Republican Congressional Food Study Committee indicated that decontrol of sugar would be an early aim.

The Government's low-price clothing program has been abandoned because of the end of price controls. It was indicated that a new holding agency would be formed to assume the remaining functions of the various price and wage control agencies and liquidate them.

Secretary Krug, failing to bring John L. Lewis and the soft-coal operators together, conferred with President Truman on the Government's next move in the face of a strike notice scheduled for today.

The Veterans Administration has ruled that the GI Bill of Rights bars from unemployment compensation veterans "directly interested or participating" in work stoppages.

PLAN CHEST X-RAYS HERE NOVEMBER 22ND

Pupils of Newtown To Be X-Rayed Same Day As Those From Bristol

BY CO. 'T. B.' SOCIETY

High school and junior high school students of Newtown and Bristol will be offered the opportunity of having their chests X-rayed on November 22nd as part of the national drive to wipe out tuberculosis. The X-ray service is sponsored by the Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Mobile equipment designed to take more than 150 X-rays per hour will be set up in this area according to the following schedule: Monday, November 18, Quakertown; Tuesday, November 19, Morrisville; Wednesday, November 20, Southampton; Thursday, November 21, New Hope; Friday, November 22, Newtown and Bristol.

For the person to be X-rayed, the process is as simple as taking a "snapshot" with an ordinary box camera. He steps in front of the X-ray unit where a trained technician shows him the proper stance and position and within a matter of two seconds his X-ray has been "shot."

This mobile, simple method of X-raying provides a rapid system of "case-finding" of tuberculosis. The full sized paper X-rays taken with the mobile unit are kept in the

WHY THE LANDSLIDE?

Political observers are still swapping guesses as to the reason why the Republican Party won by so tremendous a margin in the recent election.

There is no agreement among the analysts. That goes for those of both parties. Many think that there has been a natural reaction against too much radicalism too long continued. Others say the vote was simply a protest against scarcities, and had nothing to do with principles.

Some Democrats assert indignantly that the electorate was "fooled" by the raising of the "unfair" issues of Communism and threatened national bankruptcy.

As for the Republicans, the specialists in various major issues which were touched upon in the campaign tend to name that one subject as the one which brought home the bacon.

These speculations are by no means idle and wasteful. On the contrary, they are extremely important. The future of both parties depends upon how well they read the lessons of the balloting, and what they do to win and keep public confidence.

Of course the truth of the matter is that there are dozens of causes why voters came out this time and voted Republican. The reason it was a landslide is that many different factors playing upon many different minds brought an almost unanimous answer to the question, "Had Enough?"

Among the speculations, there is one line of reasoning which is interesting, and, if granted, would have great bearing on the future of the Republican tactics.

This is to the effect that the so-called New Deal has really never had the support of the majority of the American people; that it has been vulnerable from the outset; and that the first time it was fought on the national level by a consolidated Republican party along a united front, a landslide was inevitable.

Granting that it is beyond proof to say that any such theory holds the full answer, there is much to be said in behalf of such an appraisal.

The State Police Say . . .

One out of every three pedestrians killed in rural areas, meets death while walking along the open roads. The most important precaution to avoid such accidents is to walk on the left hand side, so you will face the traffic approaching on your side, and you won't run the risk of being hit from behind. Do your autumn hiking and all other rural walking the right way—on the left side. If your children walk to a rural school, safeguard them on the way by impressing them with this safety rule.

I. G. Farben Trust To Be Split Up

Berlin—Brig. Gen. W. H. Draper announced today that the gigantic I. G. Farben trust in the U. S. zone of occupied Germany will be broken up into thirty separate units.

The American military government has requested the German Landerrat to appoint a suitable trustee for each unit, who must be approved by U. S. authorities. "Thus we will destroy forever Farben's monopolistic control over German industry."

Investigate Slaying of Senator Hooper

Detroit—State Police today began an investigation into the story of an eye-witness who said he "saw" the 1945 slaying of Sen. Warren G. Hooper—and identified the assailant.

Shortly after the surprise witness—former prize fighter Ziggy Wardinski of Detroit—told his story to Detroit police, Capt. Don Leonard, acting head of the Michigan State Police, took active command of the inquiry.

Inspector George Branton, of the Detroit police homicide squad, said Wardinski voluntarily surrendered last night and told him he was tired of "taking the rap" in the killing.

Branton said the former fighter named Henry Lux, an ex-convict now in State Police protective custody as a material witness in the slaying, as the killer and added:

"This thing has been resting on my mind. I know who killed Hooper. I saw the killing."

MAY HELP KEEP PEACE

When a proposal is made that a nation strengthen its defenses, some persons look upon it as a war move. But there are good reasons for considering such action, in some instances, as a step in field of world peace.

Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, Britain's wartime chief of the imperial general staff, recently said at a meeting of the Royal Empire Society in London that commonwealth defenses should be strengthened until the United Nations take over, and he expressed the view that it may be many years before the UN can make its influence felt as a guardian of peace. He is of the belief that a system such as that of the Combined Chiefs of Staff, set up in Washington during the war to coordinate the military efforts of the United States and Britain, could be organized within the British Commonwealth.

The Soviet Union probably will link Viscount Alanbrooke along with Winston Churchill as a "warmonger" because of his suggestion, but the fact is that inadequate defense of great and rich territories actually invites war. Furthermore, if the great powers had not been militarily weak, during the 1930s, it is probable that Hitler, Mussolini and the Japs would not have dared to take the aggressive steps they did.

Military strength does much to keep envy on the part of other nations in check.

HORSE TRADING

"Russia gets everything she wants" is the pessimistic attitude of many Americans and Englishmen about the United Nations assembly meetings in New York. But the Russians insist, "The United States and Great Britain get everything they want."

It's no use proposing that the United States and Russia meet each other half way on all these issues. Because when American representatives think they have gone 50 per cent of the way toward the Russians' viewpoint, the Russians think the distance traversed is only 10 per cent. And when they declare they've gone 50 per cent of the way toward the American position, Americans are wont to think the Russkys have been going in the other direction.

So success or failure for UN depends on the fine art of compromise. Some people like to say pontifically, "We should always compromise on principle." But that's no help, either, because the world has been trying in vain ever since the day of Plato to determine where principle ends and program begins.

Compromises on the slavery issue did not avert the American Civil War, may even have made it inevitable. Great Britain and France compromised with Hitler at the beginning. Result? World War II. They compromised on the Spanish Civil War, too, and now wish they hadn't.

But almost every section of the Constitution of the United States represented a compromise, and it worked.

at once to investigate free or inexpensive sites at San Francisco, Boston and Philadelphia and make a prompt report to the Assembly. Westchester has offered Mohanick Park free to the United Nations.

Three Labor and one Communist members of Parliament attacked American "imperialism" and called for freeing Britain from partnership with United States foreign policy.

Six Americans shared the 1946 Nobel Prizes for peace, physics and chemistry. An expatriated German in Switzerland won the literature prize.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard University Observatory, was cited for contempt by Representative Rankin after a turbulent closed hearing of the House un-American Committee with Mr. Rankin the only member present.

Inside Your Congress

The opinion then referred to a Committee of Congress reporting that "OPA has developed an unauthorized and illegal judicial system . . . which must be changed, and changed immediately, if our form of government is to endure."

The opinion continues: "That OPA survives is due in large part to its propaganda department manned by hundreds of skilled and well-paid servants who have overcome the spirit of liberty which actuated our forefathers in dumping British rule into Boston Harbor. OPA is an outlaw. It sears, burns, and destroys all it touches. It is a tyrant and knows no law, save its own caprice. The problem confronting us is greater than the decision in this case—it involves the existence of a free country. America is now traveling the road to serfdom, guided and commanded by thousands of boards, bureaus, offices and commissions. In the forefront, carrying the flag of tyranny, marches the OPA."

The law forbids all state and lower federal courts from amending or setting aside any OPA decrees. All that such courts can do is to enforce the decrees. It is a one-way street. The only chance for judicial relief for any citizen is to go to the Emergency Court of Appeals which sits only in far away Washington, D. C. How many folks can afford to cross the continent to start a suit in Washington, D. C., to prevent the confiscation of their property? It would cost thousands of dollars. OPA, therefore, practically deprives a poor person, whether landlord or tenant, of all right to ask a court to review the acts of tyrants.

Yet a majority of the U. S. Supreme Court solemnly declares that a costly trip across the continent satisfies the Bill of Rights that a citizen shall not be deprived of his property except by due process of law.

Justice Roberts of the U. S. Supreme Court (now retired) said, however, that this and other procedures of OPA make "court review a solemn farce." Justice Roberts also expressed the fear that emergency legislation can, or will, be extended into peace time. Well, V-J Day was fifteen months ago, but OPA marches into new territory in which to swing its club.

This "solemn farce" is so much like the administration of Nazi justice that I wonder how much longer the American people are going to tolerate it.

strictest confidence. Early detection of chest abnormalities by the doctor can prevent development of serious disease.

Outranked only by heart trouble and cancer, tuberculosis is one of the leading causes of death by disease in the United States. In an average group of people, according to statistics compiled by the leading health authorities, 100 X-rays will uncover one heretofore unknown case of active tuberculosis and two cases of either suspected tuberculosis or other chest abnormalities, which must be thoroughly examined by a doctor.

The group chest X-rays service to be offered here will be conducted by Bucks Co. Tuberculosis & Health Society, utilizing the services of an organization that has taken over five million X-rays since it first pioneered in that work in 1932.

The value of these chest X-rays was recognized many years ago, but the existing equipment and methods of X-raying then in vogue made any attempt at mass surveys a cumbersome and expensive proposition.

Asthen, She gave a short history of the relations between the two countries from the time Russia recognized the United States in 1809 until the present day. The official polling of the United States as expressed by James Byrnes of the State Department, was outlined by Mrs. William Perry.

Mrs. Harold Hansen read excerpts from Henry Wallace's July letters to the president, stressing the need for co-operation with Russia.

Mrs. Albert Torongo presented the point of view of a Russian and showed "how fear and suspicion bred through years of non-co-operation and anti-Communist attitudes in this country has resulted in Russia's present hostility."

office is maintained in Belgium and another in Canada.

One of the defendants, Stephen A. Brooks, joined the company as a sales representative in April, 1939. He later became vice-president at a salary of $67,000 a year.

The suit is brought about to restrain the defendants, once in the employ of Fischer & Porter, from engaging in a similar business and using certain secrets.

Beginning the second day of the hearing, the sole witness continued to be Mr. Fischer.

With Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, and

Richardson Dilworth and Henry D. Faxon as the counsel for the plaintiff, and Webster S. Achey, C. Brewster Rhoads and Harry D. Gottlieb as the defendants' counsel, one of the most brilliant performances in verbal cross-fire is being staged in the Court House.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer is presiding and Mr. Dilworth, for the Hatboro plaintiff, and Mr. Rhoads for the defendants, are thrilling court and county officials, as well as spectators, with their deft mental manipulations.

Needlework Guild Conducts Annual Garment Display

Besides garments gathered by many directors, particular attention was called to the display of clothing made by the Bristol Branch sewing department in weekly sessions; those made by the Edgely sewing department; the 36 garments presented by a new directorship, the Bristol Business Girls' Club; and garments on the memorial table. The local sewing group which will resume work following New Year holidays, is under chairmanship of Mrs. Clyde Betts, Sr. Individuals were invited to attend these sessions each Wednesday after the first of the year, for any number of hours from 10 a. m. to four p. m., at the home of Mrs. L. J. Bevan, Dorance street. "Even though you cannot sew, you can pull basting threads or sew on buttons and snaps," the president reminded in stressing the great need for more garments for the guild.

Miss Todd, the speaker of the afternoon, informed that the Family Service Society which she represents, occasionally is called to Bristol to aid. She told that revenue for support of the society comes from the "Red Feather Campaign" in the Philadelphia area, adding that only 6 2-10 per cent of the monies received are used for administering the funds. "Our agency is called a 'private family case working agency,' as our emphasis is in working with families and individuals. We attempt to help the individual with his own particular problem."

Giving particular attention to the garments hung on lines and piled neatly on tables about the room, Miss Todd said "The things you make during the year give a great deal of pleasure." She told how proudly the girls and boys in need, who are outfitted with guild garments, try them on.

That case workers of the Family Society have four years of university training, plus two years of social work for their master's degree she stated. "We are trained for the work; and we give time to the cases, trying to get the individuals to figure things out for themselves. . . . We don't try to tell people what to do. And only in rare instances do we give advice. We are trained to try to see all angles of the problems before us, and see what they add up to." The variety of types of problems presented were mentioned—marital, eviction cases, legal angles, unemployment, cases where medical care, food or clothing are needed. "We keep the confidences imposed in us, and when called upon to tell of our work, merely cite examples."

Among the 1636 garments displayed yesterday were included the following on the honor roll: Bristol sewing department, 157; Edgely sewing department, 132; Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, 124; Catholic Daughters of America, 165. Warm underclothing, hosiery, dresses, coats, boys' suits, night-dresses and pajamas, baby blankets, bed-clothing, caps, all type baby clothing, etc., were included.

Mrs. Pitzonka called upon Mrs. Harry Pope for minutes; Mrs. Pope also reading the report of the treasurer, Mrs. William O'Dea, who was unable to attend. The president mentioned that Girl Scouts and members of the Junior Travel Club had helped arrange the display on Wednesday evening.

The date of the annual meeting was listed for December 3rd, at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Bevan, officers to be elected at that time. Named as members of a nominating committee are: Miss Frances H. Landreth, chairman; Mrs. Frank Lehman and Miss Mary J. Haines.

The president gave a bit of information for the members that 600 branches of the guild in 43 states contribute over two million garments to the needy annually. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Maude Morris and Miss Landreth.

Business Girls Give Aid To Many Needy People

A meeting of the Bristol Business Girls' Club was held last evening in the McCrory Building, with Mrs. Vincent Proff presiding. Miss Vivian Fenton read minutes of the previous meeting.

The president announced that 20 Christmas boxes are being packed for a ward at U. S. Naval Hospital, Philadelphia. Two members will act as representatives of the club at a party on December 16th, at which time the boxes will be distributed. They will also assist in trimming Christmas trees in the same ward.

Miss Lois Slayhoff, membership chairman, reported seven new members. As community projects the club contributed $10 towards prizes for the Halloween parade. Thirty-eight articles of clothing were donated to Bristol Needlework Guild. Clothing is being sent to a local family. All members having clothing, sizes 2 to 15 years, boys' or girls', are asked to contact Mrs. Vincent Proff.

Baskets are being sent to needy families for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Mrs. James Patton, editor of the club paper, announced that the paper will go to press next week. The guest writer will be A. H. Queen, president of Bristol Chamber of Commerce. The associate editors of the paper are: Beauty, Miss Vivian Fenton; gossip, Miss Lois Slayhoff; birthdays, Miss Lilly Waldron; circulation managers, the Misses Marie Torano and Letitia Cialella.

Plans were formulated for a Christmas party at which husbands and friends of members will be guests. Miss Eunice McVaine, program chairman, will be in charge of the affair.

The president appointed Miss Marie Torano as devotional chairman.

Miss Louise Smoyer gave a report on sessions of the work-shop which she had attended. The club will again send a representative when the work-shop starts its session on January 21st.

Mrs. John L. Kilcoyne, the club counselor, spoke briefly on the club's future activities and urged the girls to get more friends interested in the work carried on by the club.

The next meeting will be held December 10th in the McCrory Building, at which time plans will be completed for the club's Christmas party.

Hollywood Beauty Parade

By Max Factor, Jr.

HOLLYWOOD. (INS)—Most working women who are at all serious and ambitious about their jobs realize that they can't simultaneously be "working girls" every day and "play girls" every night. There is a working minority, however, generally comprised of very young persons, which endeavors to do a day's work and then go on to be "the life of the party" for countless sleepless hours, night after night.

As a veteran observer of the feminine glamour scene, I can state positively that they are greatly endangering their good looks. Beauty and appearance appeal can't stand up too long under the "double life" involved in work, and too much play.

Feminine beauty is a quality which should be considerably more than make-up deep. Make-up should be regarded only as a device with which to refine, dramatize, and accentuate natural beauty.

Practically every woman possesses glamorous and beautiful features in abundant measure when her womanhood is new and young. Not all of them, however, continue to command these same powers of attraction after a few years have gone by, and the very first bloom of their natural beauty is a thing of the past.

Don't assume from this statement that your good looks must pass along with the passing of your first youth. A little thinking about the beauties of screen and stage will demonstrate to you that this isn't necessarily so. Many of the stars whom you find so glamorous today were probably impressing you in the same manner ten or even more years ago. The reason such stars maintain their beauty and appeal is because they work at maintaining and guarding these qualities. After their work, they see to it that they obtain sufficient rest.

The above observations regarding the famous beauties of screen and stage offer great contrast to the still widely held belief that the lives of such stars is all play and no work, and that their lives are made up of standing before a camera for just a few minutes now and then, and that they are from then on up most of the night enjoying a riotous, round of sleepless pleasure.

There have been some few stars whose professional lives did follow this continuous round of pleasure scheme, but their careers were in nearly every instance comparatively short-lived ones.

The writer doesn't mean to convey the thought that working women should do nothing but work. Recreation and relaxation add to the efficiency of any working girl. But don't "relax" too violently, endlessly, and sleeplessly.

PUPPY COMES OF AGE

CHICAGO—(INS)—The American Veterinary Medical Association bowed to the profession of law today. Without comment, the association pointed out that Kentucky's Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit has dared to solve the age-old question of "When does a pup become a dog?" Interpreting the dog license law of that state, Dummit held that "when the pup is weaned it becomes a dog for purposes of licensing." He added that for purposes of taxation "a pup becomes a dog when it attains such an age as to be either a menace or an asset."

JAZZ FAVORITE SIGNS UP

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Woody Herman, whose band heads the list of popular favorites among America's dancing set, has been signed by George Pal to star with his orchestra in the second of Pal's Puppetoons which combines puppets and live action. The film, in Technicolor, will be titled "Rhapsody in Wood." Duke Ellington and his orchestra were featured in the first of the combination shorts, "Date With Duke," in which his "Perfume Suite" was performed. Pal hopes to have this film released in time to compete for the 1946 Academy Awards.

Keep that Stove Clean

First Step in keeping that stove clean is to fill a pan with hot water and pour in a little chemical degreasing agent. This will do most of your work for you by quickly dissolving the grease from dirty stove parts.

By MARION CLAYDE McCARROLL

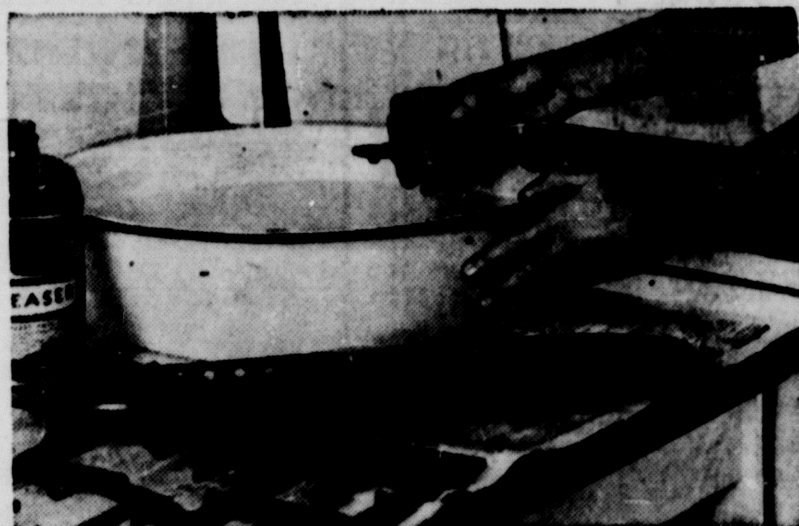

For some strange reason, the kitchen stove is usually the step-child so to speak, of the average housewife. No matter how meticulous she may be about keeping her home spic and span, how carefully she picks up the rest of the kitchen as a matter of daily routine, somehow or other the needs of the poor old gas stove are apt to be forgotten. Grease spots on top get no more than a casual swipe with a cloth; grids get coated and crusted, and burners become clogged from things that have boiled over. But not until the situation has grown so bad that the burners don't function properly is anything done about it. And then what's done is generally a hasty call for the handy man or the repair man—or maybe a husband—to clean things out and get them working right again, either because the lady of the house thinks there's something radically wrong with her stove, or else feels that cleaning it is too complicated for her to tackle. Actually, ordinary cleaning of the stove is a simple matter. Here's the procedure:

First, remove the stove grid tops, catch pans and burners, all of which lift out quite easily. Put them to soak in a pan or pail filled with hot water to which has been added a new chemical degreasing agent which makes short work of greasy stove parts, ovens, broiler pans, pots and pan and even dishes. If the drip tray under the burners is very greasy, lay it flat on the drain board of the sink, or other flat surface, pour on three tablespoons of the degreaser, add a little hot water and let it stand awhile. Fifteen minutes of soaking will be all any of the things need for the grease to be dissolved. Then just wash them off with your dish mop or a cloth in the usual manner, rinse thoroughly in clean hot water, dry and replace.

While you're at it, do the oven and broiler, too. It won't take more than the 15 minutes that the other things are soaking. Just pour some of your degreaser on a cloth and rub it on all the greasy surfaces, let stand five minutes, wipe off with a damp cloth, rinse with clean water, dry.

At the end of the 15 minutes, wash off each piece with your dish mop or a cloth, rinse thoroughly in clean hot water and put back in stove.

Red Cross Camp and Hospital Council Asks Individuals To Donate

TO GO TO HOSPITALS

In issuing a plea for Christmas gifts for hospitalized veterans, the Camp and Hospital Council of the American Red Cross states there are today at Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville; Philadelphia Naval Hospital; and Coatesville Hospital, some 6,500 patients—men and women still hearing the brunt of the war.

"Christmas will not be spent at home with their families, but in the hospital," the Camp and Hospital Council reminds. "To make a happier holiday for them the Camp and Hospital Council will need individual contributions. Any amount is acceptable, but for a contribution of $2, a gift will go to some veteran from you with your own name card. The military personnel have asked that all patients receive uniform gifts and the Red Cross has offered to purchase and wrap these for distribution. Any organization wishing to participate at Christmas parties at the Philadelphia Naval Hospital may take an entire ward, and two members of any organization may go to the party and distribute their own gifts.

"If you would like to make a hospitalized veteran happier this Christmas, send your contribution to Camp and Hospital Council, American Red Cross, 129 Mill street, or to the local chairman, Mrs. Philip Popkin, Landreth Manor, Bristol, before Nov. 20th."

Mrs. Popkin will provide information regarding ward parties at the hospital and handle details.

On High School Squad

KEN HEATH

Ken Heath has been one of the mainstays of the Bristol High School football team this year. Heath, who weighs 160 pounds, has started in every game of the season at left end.

Offensively he has been an outstanding blocker as well as one of the best pass receivers on the team. His outstanding feat of the year was his "chess catch" of the pass that scored the tying touchdown in the Murrell Dubbins game.

Until recently Heath had been playing defensive half-back. In the last two games he was moved up to the line where he continued to display his deadly tackling. Heath has played practically every minute of every game, a fact of which he is proud, and he intends to be in there every possible minute of the remaining games.

POULTRY HINTS

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(INS)—Sudden temperature changes in the poultry laying house can reduce production abruptly and may result in few eggs for a long period while hens recover from colds. Hens need fresh air, but the ventilation system should not permit the cold air to blow directly on the birds. Broken windows, ill fitting doors, and holes in walls should be repaired before winter.

Pot-Roast of Beef a Favorite for Fall

A savory pot-roast is one of those stand-bys that a thrifty homemaker serves frequently. It is ideal for all because of its satisfying heartiness. Also, it's an excellent dish to make with the leaner beef which is likely to be more plentiful at this season.

Pot-roast is always a good budget dish because it makes use of one tender cut of meat. At the same time, a pot-roast that is cooked perfectly and served with elegance can match many a luxury dish for fine flavor and appetite appeal.

Naturally, the more often you serve a pot-roast, the more important it is to vary it from one time to the next. This is easily done, for a pot-roast is a very adaptable dish. The flavor of the meat itself may be subtly changed by the use of special ingredients in cooking; and the total effect of the dish may be altered by choosing different foods to serve with the meat.

Have you ever tried adding spices to a pot-roast? Try a few whole cloves or a bit of ground ginger, and see what a difference they make. Use herbs such as bay leaf and parsley. Add garlic, if you like; or pour a small bottle of horseradish, drained of liquid, over the meat before cooking. Prepared mustard is another pepper-upper.

Vary the liquid, as another means of making the pot-roast "different." Try tomatoes or tomato juice, diluted vinegar, buttermilk, or part cat-up and part water.

You may cook vegetables with a pot-roast, just as you do for a "boiled" dinner. Be sure to add them late enough so they'll just have time to cook tender. It's usually customary to leave them whole or in large pieces. The favorites to use are potatoes, onions, carrots and turnips.

Various fruits are also a delicious addition. Cranberries give real sparkle to the dish. Dried prunes or apricots are stand-bys that always find favor.

Last of all, remember that good gravy is essential with any braised meat dish, pot-roast included. This should be made in the pan in which the meat was cooked; the drippings may be poured off first, and the right amount measured back into the pan. Blend an equal amount of flour with the drippings; then add liquid and boil a few minutes. If desired, spices or other special seasoning ingredients may be added to the gravy.

Here is an unusual pot-roast recipe you'll surely want to try. The family will enjoy a new taste thrill when you serve it.

Pot-Roast with Tomato Gravy

4-5 pounds blade pot-roast
4 tablespoons lard
1 clove garlic
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/2 cup vinegar
1 cup water
Salt and pepper
2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes
4 tablespoons flour

Brown pot-roast in hot lard. Add garlic (in one piece), thyme, vinegar and 1/2 cup water. Season. Cover

BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

Last stocking for 1946... the finest stocking of fish made by the Fish Commission this year arrived in Bristol on November 7 when a truck from the Pleasant Mount Hatchery in Wayne County delivered 1200 largemouth bass and 400 yellow perch to Silver Lake.

The yellow perch were the largest I ever saw, ranging in size from 12 to 14 inches. The bass ranged in size from 3 inches up to eight inches and were in excellent condition.

This very generous stocking, plus the previous stockings received in this area during the year, should make every angler proud of the fine job the Fish Commission has done.

Anniversary... this Sunday, November 17, the Pennsylvania Game Commission will celebrate a half century of progress in the interest of wildlife and its food and cover. The Commission was established in 1895, but the Members, then numbering six but now eight, were not appointed until November 17, 1896.

The first funds, appropriated in 1897, amounted to only $800 for the following two years. Today the annual revenue from the sale of hunting licenses and other sources amounts to more than $1,700,000.

Only a handful of game protectors were employed in the beginning. They were allowed half of the penalties collected to stimulate interest in their work; and to help further compensate them for their services. Early-day game law violators were difficult to apprehend. Hardly a week passed without an assault of some kind upon a game protector. In 1906 fourteen were shot at and seven actually shot, three of whom were killed and three seriously wounded.

Today there are 7 Field Divisions in the set-up, comprising 150 districts, all well-manned.

In 1920 the Commission began its land purchase program. Today it has almost 1,250,000 acres under control for wildlife and refuge purposes, four acres of which are open to public shooting for every acre closed.

Deer were on the verge of extermination in 1895, consequently the Commission did everything to protect them. Deer restocking began in 1906 with 50 animals. Today they are so numerous in some sections for their available food supply, they have to be reduced occasionally through statewide or special antlerless seasons.

The hunter's license law, passed in 1913, required a fee of $1.00. Today the fee is $2.00, and in 1945 there were 710,339 licenses issued.

In 1929 the first Game Farm was established. Today there are 4 farms entailing a capital investment of $577,402, and the Commission expects to acquire additional ones in the not too distant future.

In 1936 a Co-operative Farm-Game program was established to provide more open public shooting territory. Under this program the landowner leases the hunting rights to the Commission in return for the protection he receives under the agreement. Safety zones are placed within 150 yards of occupied buildings and the projects are regularly patrolled during the open season by Game Protectors. So far more than 160,000 acres have been opened to public shooting, and the Commission expects ultimately to attain a goal of 1,000,000 acres in this undertaking.

Almost 20,000 acres are open to public shooting in Bucks County. There are 555 acres in the Kintnersville and Perendale sections; 3,835 in the Quakertown and Milford Square sections; 4,880 in the vicinity of Kutztown; 5,777 acres in the vicinity of Telford and Harleysville; and 3,918 acres in the Ottsville and Kellers Church area. Montgomery County leads the State with more than 37,000 acres open to public shooting. Frank Everitt and I gunned one of the projects near Quakertown on Armistice Day. We killed one cock pheasant. Didn't start any rabbits but the country certainly looks as if it could support plenty of game.

Bear season opens... next Monday, November 18, the bear season will open and continue through Saturday, November 23. Have heard of one or two parties who will be in the big woods on November 18, but most of the big game hunters will await the opening of deer season on December 1st.

MASTBAUM TO PLAY BRISTOL HIGH HERE TOMORROW

Visitors Have Won But One
Game, The Records
Show

HAD TOUGH SCHEDULE

McClister Pleased With The Results of Juggled Lineup
At Burlington

Whether the Mastbaum Vocational School eleven, which comes to meet Bristol High here tomorrow, is a "breather," will be decided when the teams line up on the opening kick-off at 2:15 p. m.

The Mastbaum contingent has won but one game, beating Bok Vocational, 18-0, but it has played such teams as Abington, Olney, Germantown Academy, Bryn Athyn, and National Farm School, a tough schedule for any high school.

Bok Vocational, which lost to the Mastbaum club, hasn't won a game nor scored a point all season, this being its first year of football.

The visitors cannot be taken too lightly by the Bristol fans, for it has played first-class gridiron teams and held them to low scores, considering the opposition.

Coach Harry McClister, pleased with the showing of his juggled line-up which resulted in a 7-4 win over Burlington, is planning on keeping at least "Moe" Caucie in the backfield. Caucie did most of the yard-gaining in the Burlington tilt, while the other converted line-man, "Buster" Monachello, also showed up well in his blocking.

McClister is still hit with injuries, not being able to use his star back, "Sal" Accardi, to any great extent in the Burlington game. Accardi's kicking was missed the most. Rice, his understudy, showing a little inexperience in getting off his boots.

A win for the Bunnies will place them in the 500 class for the season with four wins, four defeats, and a tie, and will give them a possibility of finishing over the 500 mark for the season, as two games, Malvern Prep, and Morrisville, still remain to be played.
